

A unique inclusive reading experience for all

An octopus who writes, a knitting sheep and a tapir who thinks he's an elephant ... all the creatures in Snizzly Snouts are strange and quirky.

This award winning poetry and picture book utilizes clear letters, contrasting and tactile pictures, audio and Braille so that it will appeal to everyone including blind, visually impaired and dyslexic readers.

The CD contains a verbal description of the whole book and also serves as a GPS for the fingers, cleverly showing them how to feel the pictures. In this way, children with and without a reading impairment learn playfully to broaden their experience of life.

Freya Vlerick (Belgium, 1986) is a highly promising illustrator. Jan Dewitte (Belgium, 1968) writes for children and works for people with sight loss. They developed their concept together in close consultation with the various target groups. Marcus Cumberlege (Eric Gregory Award for poetry 1967) provided the English translation of the poems.
